Arrival to Cusco, reception and transfer to your hotel for rest and acclimatize. Spend half a day walking about the city of Cusco, ancient capital of the Incan Empire and where we can see the interesting blend of the Incan and Spanish cultures. The outing begins at the Koricancha Temple, an old Incan palace and main center for the worship of the sun god, Inti. Once the Spanish conquered Peru, the Dominican order built a lovely church over this temple's foundations: the church of Santo Domingo that is still there today. You will continue on foot to the neighborhood of San Blas, where the finest artisans of Cusco live and work. Then, you will tour some of the nearby archaeological sites. Start off at the Sacsayhuaman Fortress built of enormous stone blocks expertly shaped by the Incas. It is strategically located at the top of a hill overlooking the city of Cuzco. What a view of the city! Then, it's off to Qenko, which means labyrinth, and where the sun, the moon, and the stars were worshipped. Afterwards, it's Puca Pucara, which might have served as an inn where the Incan emperor and his entourage would have rested and lodged for the night. The last set of ruins is at Tambomachay, where important water veneration rites may have been carried out. Overnight at San Agustin Internacional Hotel (or similar). The area is so large that at least 3000 plant varieties, including potatoes and corn, could have been grown. From there, you move onwards to the town of Maras (3028 meters) to visit the biggest salt pans in the region that have been mined continuously since the Incan Empire. After this stop, you pass through the village of Pichingoto, which was the top salt producer during the Spanish colonial era, and drive through the Sacred Valley, admiring its corn fields and green prairies, until you arrive at your hotel in the valley.
